Hub signs – something more permanent

Hub survey – should we use printing costs to mail a postcard survey to find out if certain houses would prefer to have the HUB mailed to them?

(The deadline for articles for the next HUB to the editor (Helen Heil) is ??.)

Discussion:

To continue the discussion from the January meeting, the board agrees that the website www.phcahub.org could and should be enhanced to incorporate the wish list from above. The definition of a hub is a gathering place and a place for people to get information and where everything is located.

The board agrees that we want Helen Heil and Bob Amott to continue to edit and publish the HUB if they are willing to do so. We will also look for someone who is willing to help design the other portions of the website that would enhance the site to fit our wish list. Carol emailed to say that some students from Gateway may be interested in helping us.

More to come...

If a survey is created it will provide us with how our residents access and view the hub and if there are residents who do not own a computer and would like to receive a paper copy, we will work out a system to deliver to them.

Wood signs, much like those used for the egg hunt, will be created and will be able to be reused every time. The cost will be between $50-75 dollars (ply wood, stakes, hardware) and should create at least 8 signs. They will be ready before the next issue. Help is needed with painting.
